I am very upset about the Microsoft Settlement. I did not really understand how upset until somebody from Americans for Technology Leadership called my home to harras me about how I needed to show support for the Microsoft Settlement. I have an unlisted number I don t even give it out to the credit card companies. Only my work and very few others (including Microsoft) have my number at all. I am possitive that my privacy has been invaded and I am not sure but I think my civil liberties may have been violated by the disclosure of my personal information. The proposed settlement is stupid. It will give 3rd parties who did not purchase any software were not effected by the lack of competition and not forced to obtain certification from Microsoft to profit. While on the otherhand all those effected like customers competitors and professionals forced to certify and recertify will go uncompensated. Lastly it does not provide any measures for prevention of future violations. I think that any compensation should go to competitors customers and certified professionals who have suffered.
